Description

The Department of Economics at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites applications for a fellowship in:

- Title:

Strategic planning for the development of “Azienda Zero”.

- Academic Discipline or disciplines specifically identified by the call SECS-S/05; SPS/07
- scientific coordinator and tutor: Prof. Stefano Campostrini
- duration: 12 months

abstract:

The assistant researcher will have the following duties:

- coordinate the lines of activity envisaged in the second annual plan relating to the agreement between Azienda Zero and Ca' Foscari University. The annual plan identifies five lines of action that see the Ca' Foscari University carry out research, training and support for the innovative development of Azienda Zero. They are: Project line 1: Economic and financial aspects - Project line 2: Monitoring of the Regional Social-Health Plan (adaptation to the new Plan) - Project line 3: Support to training initiatives towards the management of Azienda Zero - Project line 4: Analysis of supply control models (procedures and information systems) in a context of centralization of purchasing and assignment processes - Project line 5: Analysis for the development of a sustainability assessment model of Azienda Zero. These lines include different contents, will involve many professors of Ca' Foscari University and researchers and will have as their reference different interlocutors / managers in Azienda Zero. The need is to support the scientific managers in maintaining the coordination between the different actions, both in terms of consistency in the operational proposals and in the temporal development of the actions, and to maintain an overall vision of the accompanying process that is being carried out. This action will take concrete form in maintaining relations with the lecturers responsible for the various lines of action, knowing the state of implementation of the actions, discussing with the contacts of Azienda Zero regarding the development of the project while maintaining a constant alignment with the scientific manager of the plan.

- participate in the development process of line 1 - Economic and financial aspects, line 3 - training initiatives and line 4 control models on supplies. This action will take the form of participation in the work of the various teams that will comprise the aforementioned lines of action that may include meetings at the University for the development and analysis of proposals, in-depth research and analysis on current data and procedures, identification of innovation processes and development, meetings with the representatives of Azienda Zero.
