Description

The Department of Linguistic and Comparative Cultural studies at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites applications for a fellowship in:

Title: Language and Cognition using experimental methods

Scientific area: Psychology

Abstract:

The overarching goal of the research program is to advance basic and applied research on cognitive and linguistic development in children, language acquisition, language competence and language processing across the lifespan, in different populations including young children, adolescents, monolingual and multilingual adults with experimental methods, including eye tracking and functional infrared spectroscopy. The duties expected from the fellowship recipient are those of a lab manager, and include supporting the flow and organization of all of the activities in the laboratory, with a special focus on testing human participants.

The research may be carried out in English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.

Who can apply

Prospective candidates are expected to hold a master's degree class in LM 39 and a scientific-professional curriculum suitable for carrying out research activities.

Ca' Foscari encourages applications from researchers with positive evaluation in all the criteria in individual proposals such as Marie Skłodowska Curie Actions - Individual Fellowships/ERC Starting Grants/FIRB (Italian Fund for basic research investments)/SIR (Scientific Young Independence Research) or similar.
