Description

The Department of Molecular Sciences and Nanosystems at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites applications for a fellowship in:

Title: "Co-development of prototype devices for the detection of imatinib and irinotecan drugs in plasma samples"

SSD: CHIM/01

Coordinator and Tutor: Prof. Salvatore Daniele

Duration: 12 months

Abstract:

Ca' Foscari University of Venice and the National Cancer Institute (CRO) of Aviano are owners of two patent applications relating to methods for determining the concentration of Imatinib and Irinotecan anticancer drugs in patients' plasma samples. The project activity will focus on the development of a prototype device of the isolation and electrochemical measurement system of the antitumor compounds' concentration claimed in the patents. This device will allow you to view the results in real time and at the patient's bed (point-of-care), avoiding long waiting times and specialist analyses.

The research may be carried out in English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.
