Description

The Department of Philosophy and Cultural Heritage at Ca' Foscari University Venice invites applications for a fellowship in:

Title: Trafficking and exploitation of migrants in sexual and reproductive work.

Scientific Disciplinary Sectors and/or Competition Sector Groups: SPS/08 Sociology of culture and communication

Scientific Responsible tutor: prof. Sabrina Marchetti

Duration: 12 months (renewable)

Abstract: The research is part of the HORIZON2020-MIGRATION-07-2019 project "VULNER: Vulnerabilities under the global protection regime: how does the law assess, address, shape, and produce the vulnerabilities of protection seekers?". The aim of the project is a critical analysis of the concept of vulnerability, of the meaning and practices associated with it from the social, political and legal point of view. The VULNER research will focus on the case of "protection seekers" in Belgium, Germany, Italy, Norway, Canada, Lebanon, Uganda and South Africa.

The research object of the call is part of the objectives of the project HORIZON2020-MIGRATION-07-2019 project "VULNER: Vulnerabilities under the global protection regime: how does the law assess, address, shape, and produce the vulnerabilities of protection seekers?", relating to the themes of trafficking and exploitation by investigating the conditions of migrants involved in these phenomena in the context of sexual and reproductive work more generally. The research will focus on the Italian context with references to other European countries and to the international context. In line with the approach of the VULNER project, we will look at both the policies and the subjective experiences of migrants. We will also participate in scientific dissemination activities on the themes of the project.

The research may be carried out in English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.
