Description

The Department of Philosophy and Cultural Heritage at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites applications for two fellowships in:

Title: Sustainable use of marine and coastal resources: critical analysis of the results obtained in projects concerning marine pollution in the Adriatic basin (with particular reference to marine litter) in the light of national and European strategies for the management of marine resources in the marine and coastal environment.

Scientific area /field: CHIM/12

Tutor: Prof. Giulio Pojana

Abstract: The project “Raising awareness of Maritime Spatial planning importance - RESISTANCE (CUP: F53B22000030005), funded by the Interreg Italy Croatia Programme, aims to strengthen the sustainable use of marine and coastal resources in the Adriatic Sea through the close cooperation of institutions and experts. The project activities are also focused on the development of new educational and management tools to increase the awareness of coastal communities, policy makers, NGOs and the general public in order to support new strategies for the management of marine litter (ML).

The research activity to be developed concerns the critical analysis of scientific data and results obtained in the projects carried out by the partners involved in the RESISTANCE project, as well as national and European strategies and legislation in force, related to the management of the Adriatic Sea resources, in accordance with the principles of Integrated Coastal Zone Management (ICZM) and Maritime Spatial Planning (MSP). At the same time, the winners will provide their scientific support to the dissemination activities (study visits, workshops, scientific conferences, etc.) provided by the project at local and regional level.

Availability to daily and multi-day travels in Italy (Veneto and/or Marche Region) and Croatia (Podstrana, Murter), and in marine and coastal areas of interest in both countries mentioned (Po Delta, Kornati) is required.

The research may be carried out in English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.
