Description

The Department of Management at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites application for one-year fellowship in Networks and resilience: the case of Italian network contracts, under the supervision of prof. Anna Cabigiosu (SSD SECS-P/08 - Management)

Project acronym: PRIN 2022 “Organizing for resilience: how do networks and firms face adversities?” n. 2022RPXNJB – CUP H53D23003380006.

A full copy of the approved project will be provided to the selected applicant.

Abstract: Companies are becoming more and more exposed to shocks, adversities and unexpected events. This goes hand in hand with the increasing attention that resilience is gaining in business and management research. Notwithstanding past research has mostly focused on resilience at individual and organizational level (Hilman & Guenther, 2021), overlooking “how inter-organizational structures should be designed for resilience” (Linnenluecke 2017: 25). As a consequence we know little about networks’ characteristics and mechanisms for facing crises and adversities, also because network studies have not yet explored the role of resilience as a possible performance outcome of inter-organizational relationships (Moretti 2017). Addressing these limitations, the research will use data of the Osservatorio Nazionale sulle Reti d’Impresa (henceforth Osservatorio) to analyze the resilience of these networks and identify the structural and organizational characteristics of most resilient networks.

The research may be carried out in Italian and English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.
