Description

The Department of Linguistic and Comparative Cultural studies at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites applications for a fellowship in:

Title: Governing consensus. The political role of knowledge in Italy (1789-1870)

Scientific area: M-STO/02

Abstract:

The project investigates the role of knowledge as an instrument of consensus and a source of political legitimation, alongside the more studied categories of celebrity or charisma. It analyzes the circulation of knowledge by looking at the multiple interactions between agents, events, places, and texts. The project focuses on the Italian space and on the turning point between the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries as a moment of reconfiguration in an active, practical, and political sense, compared to the most frequently investigated seventeenth-eighteenth century elaborations.

Part of the research will be carried out in English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.

Who can apply

Prospective candidates are expected to hold a master's degree in Historical studies or related disciplines.

Ca' Foscari encourages applications from researchers with positive evaluation in all the criteria in individual proposals such as Marie Skłodowska Curie Actions - Individual Fellowships/ERC Starting Grants/FIRB (Italian Fund for basic research investments)/SIR (Scientific Young Independence Research) or similar.
