Description

The Department of Humanities at Ca' Foscari University of Venice (Dipartimento di Studi Umanistici dell'Università Ca' Foscari Venezia) invites applications for a fellowship in: “Women's Oratory in the Roman world (8th BCE – 1st CE): comprehensive analysis of the case studies; data processing into the digital platform”, Academic discipline: L-ANT/03 Roman History, duration 12 months, tutor Prof. Francesca Rohr, financed by SPIN 2023 project “Women's Oratory in the Roman world: the gender Dimension in ancient Speeches (8th BCE – 1st CE), acronym “WORDS”, CUP: H73C23000910005, Principal Investigator Prof. Francesca Rohr.

Abstract: The project sets out to investigate the political speeches attributed to Roman matrons between the monarchic and early imperial periods. It focuses on a communication practice from which the mos maiorum excluded women: indeed, by tradition, they did not participate in the institutional life and, therefore, political communication. The research assistants will be expected to conduct a census and systematic examination of literary and historiographic through paper and digital archives, using keywords, to identify case studies and classify them, by an open access digital platform, based on indicators related to the historical reconstruction - female protagonists, contexts, goals, results, judgement on such female behaviour, women's political language - and to the historiographical representation of the phenomenon - narrative format, lexicon/vocabulary.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Ca' Foscari University of Venice.
