Description

The Department of Management - Venice School of Management at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites application for one-year fellowship in The transformations of the Italian automotive ecosystem in light of the evolution of technology and the market, under the supervision of prof. Francesco Zirpoli (ECON-07/A - Management).

Abstract: This project is part of the OTEA Observatory at VSM - Ca' Foscari University of Venice that aims to investigate the impact of the ongoing technological transition on employment and professional skills in the automotive sector. It is founded on the integration of various disciplinary expertise, including the sociology of work and organizations, economic sociology, and innovation management, along with a combination of qualitative surveys and data sets as methodological approaches. The candidate will work on the following research question: How are changes in the knowledge base and market impacting the Italian automotive industry's supply chain and its professional and occupational needs?

The research may be carried out in Italian and English.

The fellowship is intended to provide the successful candidate with the opportunity to pursue his/her own research while benefiting from the range of expertise at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia.

Who can apply

Prospective candidates are expected to hold a doctoral degree in Management, Economics and scientific-professional curriculum suitable to the development of research activities related to the fellowship.

Ca' Foscari encourages applications from researchers with positive evaluation in all the criteria in individual proposals such as Marie Skłodowska Curie Actions - Individual Fellowships/ERC Starting Grants/FIRB (Italian Fund for basic research investments)/SIR (Scientific Young Independence Research) or similar.
