

Short Bio: Dr. John Pavlopoulos's research focus is on Machine Learning for Natural Language Processing (NLP) with applications for the Humanities, such as sentiment analysis, computational attribution, abusive language detection and grammatical error detection/correction. He has a publication record in NLP and he has co-organised two academic challenges (Semeval 2014 & 2021). Before visiting Ca'Foscari, he was a Google-funded postdoctoral researcher (Athens University of Economics and Business), a senior lecturer (Stockholm University) and an affiliated researcher at the Ritsumeikan University, Japan.