The Ca’ Foscari University of Venice and the University of Sassari are pleased to invite you to the SASCA Ph.D. Conference in Economics 2022. The event will take place on the 8th and 9th of September at Palazzo Moro of the Ca’ Foscari University of Venice (Italy). The conference will bring together promising Ph.D. students from many Institutions to encourage the exchange of ideas and networking.

Submissions in any economic field are welcome from all Ph.D. students and researchers who have just completed their Ph.D. We are looking for complete and work-in-progress papers in applied microeconomics, applied macroeconomics, finance and banking, microeconomic theory, macroeconomic theory, econometrics and quantitative methods, behavioural and experimental economics, etc.

You can apply with your full article. Submissions will be evaluated by a Scientific Committee. Selected speakers will be invited to present their work. During the conference, each presentation will include a discussion and a brief Q&A session.

Information on how to apply here (deadline July 10):
https://www.sites.google.com/view/sassari-venice-phd-conference/application-form

For any inquiry, please contact us:
sascaphdconf@gmail.com

Keynote speakers

Rob Alessie
University of Groningen
Expertise: consumer economics, household saving behaviour, economics of ageing, labour economics, health economics

Caterina Mendicino
European Central Bank
Expertise: macroeconomics and monetary economics, financial economics, macroprudential policies