

Extreme Elections?

Mapping the Geopolitical and Domestic Impacts of the US Presidential Election, a Conversation

November 7th, 2024, 6.30 pm
Aula Tesa 1, Ca' Foscari Zattere
Fondamenta Zattere 1392

How will the results of the US elections re-shape the wider global geopolitical context and relations with the European Union? And how will they potentially impact not just US but also European domestic politics? As part of the Transeuropa Festival taking place in Venice (November 6-10), the panel brings together three leading commentators:

Shalini Randeria, President and Rector of the Central European University

Lorenzo Marsili, co-founder of European Alternatives and Director of the Berggruen Institute Europe

Erik Jones, Director of the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies at the European University Institute

Moderator:

Luiza Bialasiewicz, Professor of Political and Economic Geography at Ca' Foscari University of Venice